I am a researcher and academic teacher with over fifteen years of experience. Professionally, I am interested in the environmental aspects of livestock production and methods of improving the welfare of farm animals. I am a strong supporter of the model of sustainable farm management.

I like having long conversations on exciting topics. I love people who do not take themselves too seriously, who comment on reality similar to the creators of "Monty Python's Flying Circus".

I am interested in young people and their approach to global and local problems. Privately, I am a big fan of Pedro Almodovar's films, basketball and Crossfit, as well as jazz music ... but not only ;-)
